

The Walnut Creek/East Bay Chapter of the American Sewing Guild
Presents:
Community Service Sewing Event

The Contra Costa Regional Medical Center’s Newborn Layette Project has been in operation for over 30 years. Their auxiliary group provides a layette to every new mother and their infants born at the Center in Martinez. They are in need of receiving blankets. This is your chance to give back to our community by sewing for those who can really use our help. We always have a good time. Please bring your friends as we support our community doing what we love best! Everyone is welcome!

The one-layer, flannel receiving blankets require finishing the edges by serging or hemming with a simple straight stitch. This is a wonderful project for beginning sewers.

Please bring the following equipment and materials

- Donations of good quality flannel fabric is appreciated, if possible
- Sewing machine and/or Serger
- Neutral color threads, ie: Light Pink, Light Blue, Light Green
- Basic sewing supplies
